Well, that half term flew by! The children have settled well and, as we learn more about their interests and the way in which they explore the world, we are able to develop the learning environment to suit their needs, interests and experiences. Having easy access to the Common outside St John's Church has enhanced this process. During "Forest School" the adults and children have interacted in a new environment and we have all gained enormously from the opportunities. Advocates of the Forest School movement claim its benefits include: Building confidence and independence; Feeling empathy for others and nature; Physical Fitness/Activity; Improved Mental Health and Having Fun . We have to agree and look forward to outings onto the Common with all the children over the coming weeks.
