

At Forest School the children found wooden dens built with sticks and enjoyed pretending that it was one of the little pig's houses. Back in Preschool we followed their interest in the story and provided resources that allowed them to interact with the different elements of the tale.

Actively making music

The week has been a wonderful mix of adult-led and child initiated activities; following the children's interests and extending their experiences—all through play!